Catalog Description

A study of the foundation of abstractionism from Neo-Classicism through Post-Impressionism. Prerequisite: ARTS 2305 Offered: Other

Objectives

This course examines developments in Modern art beginning with the emergence of Social Realism, which challenged the idealized depictions of 19th century French Neo-Classicism and Romanticism. We then consider the impact of modernization (Industrialization and new technologies) on the artistic production of Naturalism, Impressionism, and the emerging medium of photography. We explore artistic responses to modernity (the experience of modern life) in the formal and thematic innovations of Post-Impressionism, Symbolism, Art Nouveau, and the Arts and Crafts movements at the turn of the 20th century. Tracing a variety of Post-Impressionist practices, we follow the developments of the artistic avant-gardes leading into the 20th century, considering Fauvism, Expressionism, Cubism, Suprematism, Surrealism, and other key artistic movements.

Outcomes

- Identify the key artists, works, styles, and processes in 19th-early 20th century art

Classroom Etiquette
In order to succeed and foster a learning environment, you should arrive on time, engage with the class, and not disturb those around you. There should be NO doing work for other classes, answering cell phone calls, texting, or playing games. Cell phones may be used only for in-class activities and otherwise turned off to avoid distractions. If you intend to take notes on your laptop, please respect the decorum of the classroom by not working on other assignments or playing games, updating your facebook status, etc. This is not only disrespectful it is disruptive to the professor and students who want to engage in the class. Falling asleep, surfing the internet, disrupting class, and disrespectful behavior towards the class or the instructor will negatively affect your ability to concentrate and will certainly impact your final grade. Students who participate in such disruptive and inappropriate behaviors may be given an opportunity to reaffirm their etiquette pledge or, in extreme or repeated cases, may be asked to leave the class.

Quizzes

Short, impromptu quizzes test students’ recollection of images and ideas studied in class and readings. You should thus arrive promptly to class and be prepared to participate in periodic online quizzes to test your knowledge. As class time is precious and fairness is imperative, NO MAKE-UP QUIZZES will be allowed except in extreme and well-documented cases, such as serious illness with a doctor’s note as outlined above.

Exams

Exams demonstrate ability to identify historically significant art works and recognize their period and style of production. Exams also demonstrate mastery of specialized vocabulary and ability to synthesize and discuss developments in art history. You will be tested incrementally by taking three exams, each covering the artists, practices, and movements covered in that particular portion of the course. The exams will not be cumulative; but they will build upon the ideas, themes, and vocabulary the students learn throughout the semester. The exams will consist of image identification, true/false, matching, and multiple choice questions treating images and practices discussed in class, readings, and Blackboard resources. Short answer essay questions may also be included on the tests. The exams and detailed instructions will be provided. As fairness is crucial all exams must be completed and submitted in class the day they are scheduled. NO MAKE-UP EXAMS will be given except in the most extreme circumstances, such as serious, well-documented illness. In such serious situations, the student should request alternate exam arrangements in advance.

Research Paper and Writing Activities

This course requires a well-researched, well-reasoned, and well-written paper discussing art produced by an artist or movement relevant to the course. You will engage in stepped research and writing activities in, and outside of, class throughout the semester that will demonstrate progress toward the final paper (see writing activities assignments). You may write about an artist or artists discussed in course lectures or readings or a professor-approved artist or artists viewed in a current exhibition of late 19th or early 20th century art. Details and guidelines for writing a research paper, form, strategies, and acceptable academic sources will be discussed in class and posted on Blackboard.

Exhibition Attendance  - Required and Extra Credit

As part of your art historical development, you are strongly encouraged to attend art openings available in the community and beyond during the semester. Accordingly, this class will be required to attend at least one exhibition as a group at the Art Museum of Southeast Texas (see calendar for the date of the trip).
Extra credit will also be offered to students who attend exhibitions of art relevant to the course and submit the required Extra Credit Review Sheet and proof of attendance. Up to 2 Extra Credit Review Sheets may be submitted during the course for up to 3 points each. Details can be found on our course Blackboard site. Students may also choose to include the artists viewed in an exhibition in the research term paper (see research paper instructions for details).

Venues include, but are not limited to, the Dishman Art Museum, the Art Museum of Southeast Texas, and the Art Studio, Inc. The Museum of Fine Arts, Houston; The Contemporary Art Museum, Houston; and the Menil Collection, Houston are also recommended.
